IL GIORNALE

CIAO E BENVENUTI AL GIORNALE!

IN THIS EDITION:

- From our President John Barnes OAM
- Recent and upcoming events
- What's happening at New Italy

FROM OUR PRESIDENT

No one needs reminding that we live in an era of change. It is a permanent of long standing. What must be added now is that the pace of change has accelerated greatly and New Italy has not escaped the trend.

This fact has been exposed by recent visits to New Italy by firstly, the Mayor and General Manager of Richmond Valley Council and secondly, by the State Member Mr Chris Gulaptis. These contacts led to an on-site meeting with representatives from the Office of Regional Development from the Premier's Department based in Lismore.

There was agreement from these visits and our own findings is that in order to satisfy the opportunities arising and to meet public expectations the site needs a capital injection of a size which is beyond its capacity to generate. Consequently it was stressed to us that in order to qualify for large grants (capital) New Italy must have another master/strategic plan prepared. Our previous plan of 2007 is very dated and not suitable to accompany large government grant applications.

As a follow up to the above advice, an approach has been made to a well qualified consultant to assist us in developing a master/strategic plan. It is hoped that this plan can be finalized in time for presentation at the AGM in November.

Meanwhile: The new rear (western side) car park should be ready for use by mid September (Contractors advice). Kerbing has been laid and finishing works which include more fill, compaction, surfacing, line marking and entrance/exit driveways are to follow in short order.

When this new rear car park is completed and opened the front (eastern) car park will close. This will allow works on the nearby highway and front car park to commence. Then when all this is finished we will have both front and rear car parks. This two car park situation will mean that the site has two entrances - front and rear. Both will need to be safe, informative and welcoming.

This stage of our development will hopefully open up the possibility of charging vans etc for overnighting. This income would defray our share of costs for the new car park establishment which has already cost approximately $50,000 as well as supporting infrastructure such as lighting and a footpath to the buildings.

I might mention that the new 120 space car park's construction costs are being largely borne by the Department of Roads & Maritime Services. It is nice to see Government money go to a good cause.

Also: Following advice in the Winter edition of Il Giornale re smaller events at New Italy, I recommend attendance at our first Grandparents Day to be held on Sunday 28 October at the New Italy Museum site. Lots of music, dancing, competitions and family fun! Looking forward to seeing you there!

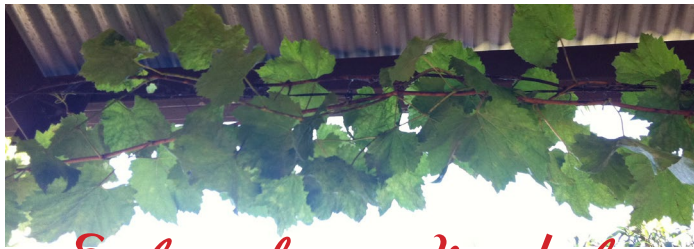

Finally: My quarterly messages are intended to be informative and interesting, keeping you up to date with changes and developments. However, depending on the topic(s) being addressed it is sometimes difficult to give details. If you haven't visited recently, come and see for yourself. You are in for some pleasant surprises! We look forward to your feedback.

Any suggestions or comments would be greatly appreciated.

John Barnes

Early cooking at New Italy

In his MA thesis about the early settlement of New Italy, Phil Pryor describes a chicken recipe named 'Bolla', as told to him by Mrs A. Piccoli and Mrs A. Sullivan.

'Meals based on chicken meats were popular, whether roasted, steamed with macaroni or boiled for soup. Chicken was boiled with rice and allowed to set, the popular Bolla. Bolla was everybody's favourite' and widely remembered.'

Does anyone recall 'Bolla' in their family's stories or recipe books? Perhaps it was also called 'Pollo' (chicken)? or Il Bollito (a traditional recipe from Veneto)?

It would be great to add to our own recipe collection.

COME AND JOIN US - GRANDPARENTS DAY!

You are invited to a luncheon event where all grandparents - including descendants of the settlers of New Italy - will celebrate New Italy the place and share their stories and memories. We wish to celebrate and honour grandparents, give grandparents an opportunity to share stories for their children's children, and to help children become aware of the fun, strength, information, and guidance older people can offer. There will be an opportunity to have the New Italy stories recorded to add to the NI archive. However this is a celebration of all families, not just New Italy families. Everyone is welcome!

We invite visitors to get into the spirit of the day. Be inspired by your grandparent's era and dress accordingly! As we build new displays in the New Italy Museum we have noted the New Italy families' love of big hats - male and female! So we encourage you to create one, borrow one - and wear one! At the end of the day the best Big Hat will be chosen and awarded.

New Italy Museum Inc. welcomes Joe Zappia from the Central Coast area to perform for us at the inaugural Grandparents Day at New Italy. So dust off those dancing shoes!

Childrens activities will take place in the Park of Peace, the Museum and the Pavilion. A variety of traditional games and other creativity will be available across these spaces. Prizes to be won!

WHAT'S HAPPENING AT NEW ITALY...

MUSEUM UPGRADE UPDATE ... SEPTEMBER 2018

Top: The proposed design of the new café screen.
Bottom: The museum/café verandah has four paintings by Florian Volpato

A lot has been happening inside and outside of the Museum recently. Much sifting and gathering of New Italy family photos has enabled the preparation of a large wall graphic and display recognising the first families in the New Italy community.

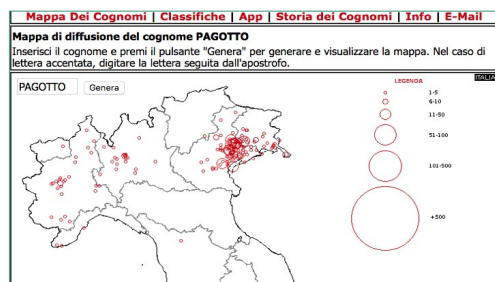

Also a 4.5 metre wide screen, to separate the Café and Museum on the southern side, will be installed. The design features the generous donation of an original Joseph Check photo - 'Settlers of New Italy 1899: A typical Gathering at a Festa', by the Spinaze family. It includes the names of almost all the people in the photo. Both projects show the nature of the early settlement at New Italy. They will be ready for Grandparents Day - Sunday 28 October. See you there!

The New Italy heritage fabric cabinet, which will house many of the Museum's beautiful and fragile fabric items will also be installed into the Museum over September. The construction by Design Spec Joinery and Kitchen (Lismore) of the eight-drawer cabinet was made possible through a Museum and Galleries grant.

Meanwhile Florian Volpato's painting - Bassano del Grappa, Ponte Vecchio - has been installed outside the Museum. This completes the row of Florian's painting along the verandah wall. Framing and installation by Lickiss Glass, Lismore.

THE ITALIAN PAVILION

The Pavilion can tell many stories through maps - a graphic way to tell of events, record important changes over time and tell us where we came from.

Try this handy Italian website. Go to <https://www.mappadeicognomi.it/index.php?> - type your surname into the empty field and see where people with your surname live in Italy. I was surprised to find my very Anglo name popping up in many of the regions of Italy. You will see here the very Lismore surname 'Pagotto' is well represented in northern Italy - especially Veneto and Friuli.

THE CASA VECCHIA GIFT SHOP

So much roadwork is happening around New Italy these days that you may be wondering how it is affecting us. We often hear from travellers that they are surprised we are still open as it looks like the new highway will be going right through us! We assure you we are still here and open for business! All the land clearing on the northside is to make an access road to the highway. The car park out the front will soon be closed for work to begin there. In the meantime a new car park is being built out the back to house 100+ cars!! A quieter place to stop for all. Exciting times!
